Textbook & Instructional Materials

Required: Locke, L.F., Silverman, S.J., Spirduso, W.W.(2010). Reading and Understanding Research. (3rd). Los Angeles: Sage Recommended American Psychological Association. (2020). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association. (7th ed.). Washington, DC: American Psychological Association.

Course Description

Fosters an understanding of the scope of social science research including methodologies appropriate to issues impacting human social interaction while preparing them to understand, analyze, synthesize, and critically evaluate contemporary research.

Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes/Course Competencies

To provide students the knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary 1) to read, understand, and appreciate research, 2) identify a research question with an independent and dependent variable and 3) to write a mini-literature review based upon synthesis of existing literature. The mini-literature should be 8-10 pages in length.

Academic Misconduct Policy & Procedures

Academic Dishonesty: Cheating, collusion, and plagiarism (the act of using source material of other persons, either published or unpublished, without following the accepted techniques of crediting, or the submission for credit of work not the individual's to whom credit is given). Additional guidelines on procedures in these matters may be found in the Office of Student Conduct.

Office of Student Conduct

More specifically, plagiarism can occur in many ways. If a student uses another student's work and presents it as the student's own, that is considered plagiarism and will result in a 0 on the assignment. If a student has a significant amount of narrative from other sources presented as his/her own (determined by % match in TurnitIn), that is considered plagiarism and will result in a 0 on the assignment. Each draft submitted will have an associated plagiarism match provided by TurnitIn. You may have one direct quote (cited in APA format). All other material must be cited AND original to the student.

Artificial Intelligence (AI) advances have now provided generative and creative applications such as Chat GPT, Google Bard, Guru, Microsoft Copilot, and others. Indeed, these tools can be helpful in the learning process; however, the content they generate does not represent the student's effort and learning. Submitting AI-generated work in place of the student's original and genuine work will be considered a form of academic misconduct and will fall under the plagiarism rule.

Grading/Assessment

Course Grade-
Synthesizing Literature	30 points
Research topic	15 points

Reading quizzes (6 quizzes)	60 points
HW assignments (3 units)	25 points each (75 total)
Final mini-literature review (due date)	72 points

Grade	Points
A	226.8-252
B	200-226.7
C	176.4-199.5
D	151.2-176.3
F	You have got to be kidding.

Synthesizing Literature

In the past, you have likely written papers that are summaries from research articles. That is not our purpose here. You will learn to analyze articles, summarize the meaning, and then combine those to create an original paragraph. This activity will provide an opportunity to practice this skill prior to implementing the skill in an actual literature review. It is scored in three parts: 10 points for the research analysis table, 10 points for the article summary, and 10 points for the single-page synthesis. Please submit as a word document for editing and feedback. Note the deadline.

Reading quizzes

After you review read and review the material in a module, there will be a short quiz over the presentations, notes, etc. There are 10 questions in T/F, multiple choice, or multi-answer format. You have 1 hour to complete a quiz. You may do those anytime you feel ready BUT please note the deadlines for each in D2L.

HW Assignments

One of the main purposes of this class is for you to understand what it is you are reading as you peruse the literature on your topic. After you have read, we will discuss various aspects of research in class. In addition, each unit of study will have several papers with questions for you to answer to check for understanding. You may work on these when you think you are ready, but you will only have 24 hours to complete them. Note the deadlines for each in D2L. You may work together if you think that will help. They are worth 25 points each and represent an assessment of your understanding. These are multiple-choice questions from several articles.

Mini Literature Review

You will identify a research question with a clearly defined independent and dependent variable. You will then research articles related to this variable to help the reader better understand what is known about the topic. The literature review should be 8-10 pages in length, not including the cover page or reference page(s). 7.5 pages of writing is not 8 pages. Writing is a development skill, especially in the context of research. Part of this process includes writing multiple drafts. This is the same process every writer goes through. To that end, this assignment is graded on a competency-based format. This means I will provide feedback up to three times, leading to your final grade (i.e., you submit, I give edits/feedback, you correct that submission again, and I give edits/feedback, then you correct for a final version).

Submit as a Word document for editing and feedback. A PDF will not receive feedback.

The final draft submitted for a grade will be a Word document. Anything else will be a 0. You will also include a zip file containing the first page of each primary source used in the development of your literature review.

Due dates for drafts (drafts are not required and there is no grade).

Desire-to-Learn (D2L)

Extensive use of the MSU D2L program is a part of this course. Each student is expected to be familiar with this program, as it serves as the primary source of communication for assignments, examination materials, and general course information. You can log in to D2L via the MSU Homepage. If you experience difficulties, please contact the program's technicians or your instructor.

All assignments are submitted as Word documents in D2L. WordPress, PDF, Google Docs, etc., are not accepted and will be counted as 0.

Attendance

This is an online course so attendance is not part of the requirement. However, the course is challenging. If you do not stay on top of the reading, you will quickly get left behind.

General guidelines for time commitment are as follows.

2-3 hours per hour of course credit for class preparation (reading)

1 hour per hour of course credit for course engagement (course engagement, watching videos, discussion etc..)

This means for a 3 hour course you should expect to devote 10-12 hours per week. This does not include time spent working on the literature review.

Online Computer Requirements

Taking an online class requires you to have access to a computer (with Internet access) to complete and upload your assignments. It is your responsibility to have (or have access to) a working computer in this class.

Assignments and tests are due by the due date, and personal computer technical difficulties will not be considered reason for the instructor to allow students extra time to submit assignments, tests, or discussion postings. Computers are available on campus in various areas of the buildings as well as the Academic Success Center. Your computer being down is not an excuse for missing a deadline!! There are many places to access your class! Our online classes can be accessed from any computer in the world which is connected to the internet. Contact your instructor immediately upon having computer trouble If you have technical difficulties in the course, there is also a student helpdesk available to you. The college cannot work directly on student computers due to both liability and resource limitations however they are able to help you get connected to our online services. For help, log into D2L.
