Notice

Changes in the course syllabus, procedure, assignments, and schedule may be made at the discretion of the instructor.

Course Schedule:

Students shall continue to develop all four chapters of the Dissertation in Practice throughout the term.

Course Schedule

Think about this with the goal in mind.

Your goal should be to defend your final DiP the first week of Summer I.

To do that, several things need to start happening now.

Week or Module	Activities/Assignments/Exams	Due Date
Week 1 8/28	Meet with the committee chair regarding objectives/IRB	Clearly posted Due Dates
Week 2 9/4	Develop/finalize proposal
Week 3 9/11
Week 4 9/18	Submit proposal (D2L) and schedule proposal hearing
Week 5 9/25	Develop IRB and submit
Week 6 10/2	While waiting on IRB expand and develop Review of Literature
Week 7 10/9
Week 8 10/16
Week 9 10/23	Continue
Week 10 10/30	Continue
Week 11 11/6
Week 12 11/13	Continue
Week 13 11/20	Continue
Week 14 11/27	Continue
Week 15 12/4	Submit complete Review of Literature (D2L)

In the spring, you will be expected to have your data collected, organized and ready for analysis (February).

You will receive your data analysis quickly after your submission. You will then begin writing the results, to finish the four chapters by April 1.

Those edits will go to your committee about that time; they need 2 weeks to edit and provide feedback.

A final version should be ready toward the end of the spring semester and we will schedule your hearing for the first week of June (Summer I).

Appendix A
Dissertation Project Defense Evaluation Rubric

Overview:

While leadership is about influence and getting results, it also requires continuous growth in the process of leading. The self-actualized leader reflects on personal mastery and excellence. As the culminating experience that demonstrates the scholarly practitioner's ability to solve problems of practice, the Dissertation in Practice (DIP) showcases the doctoral candidate's ability "to think, to perform, and to act with integrity" (Shulman, 2005). The Leading with Influence evidence places the candidate in a leadership role to implement a series of short-term "next-step" interventions which have been identified previously during the strategic planning process as well as to evaluate each one's overall effectiveness and potential for expansion. Along with other pertinent discussions, the candidate will also present a final strategic communication plan at the conclusion of the DIP which is designed to provide a compelling argument for continuing with certain interventions based on short-term data analyses and findings. The "strategic communication plan" (developed by the candidate in EDLE 6203) should present information suitable for sharing the results of the DIP with key stakeholders (principals, parents, faculty/staff, school board, community leaders, county commissioners, etc.). The written communication plan should be in the form of an Executive Summary.

Directions to the Candidate and Requirements:

The Dissertation in Practice (DIP) is a formal demonstration of the doctoral candidate's knowledge, skills and behaviors, scholarship, and dispositions of educational leadership. It is intended to serve as a demonstration that the doctoral candidate is capable and prepared to provide extraordinary leadership. The DIP is a strategic plan to solve a problem of practice with the preliminary steps "next steps" of implementation and evaluation of potential solutions. It involves working with a -level leader (superintendent or designee) on a problem, or opportunity, that is of mutual concern to them. The DIP serves to provide major evidence of leadership performance, leadership capacity, and leadership thinking.

The candidate should be aware that the DIP must be a practical application of the candidate's: (1) strategic planning skills; (2) use of data to impact teaching and learning; (3) ability to build and use relationships toward the same end; and (4) ability to apply theory to practice. These four cornerstones emanate from the framework of four key strands of Midwestern State University's Ed.D. Program in Educational Leadership: Strategic Leadership; Data and Learning; Building Collaborative Relationships; and Theory, Application and Practice. The assessment of the DIP is guided by the rubric below which evaluates the candidate's proficiency in knowledge, skills in oral and written communication, leadership, and dispositions as they are applied to the evidence or product produced by the candidate.

Evaluation:

The Dissertation in Practice Rubric will be utilized by the candidate's DiP chair to evaluate the candidate's DiP during the final semester of dissertation work (EDLE 6203). It will also be used as a formative assessment of progress in the dissertation classes prior to the last semester.
