Course Description

A course designed to increase the variety and depth of the students' exposure to music and to enhance understanding and enjoyment of music as an art.

Textbook & Instructional Materials

The required materials for this course are contained in an online learning platform called Connect 4 Education (C4E). The text we will use is OnMusic Appreciation, 4th Edition. Below is a link for information on how to purchase access to the online platform: Online Platform Access Instructions. Please let me know if you have any trouble accessing the learning platform, as the information contained there will be necessary to complete most assignments in the course starting on day one.

Daily access to Desire2Learn (D2L) is also required for this course. Some assignments will be submitted through D2L while some will be completed through C4E. Please check the syllabus before submitting assignments so that I can locate them easily for grading.

Homework

All assignments are due at 11:59 pm on the Sunday of the week, and they are listed in the schedule below. You may complete and submit assignments early.

Musical Background Introduction – 0% of final grade

For this assignment, you will write a 100-150 words long post detailing your musical background, current musical interests and hopes for this course. This assignment is not graded but is required. You will not receive credit for any other assignments until this is submitted.

Start your post by stating your name and major here at MSU (or your high school if you are taking this as a dual credit course). After this brief intro, please freely talk about the following three topics. I have provided a sampling of questions to help get you started.

1. Musical Background – Do you play an instrument or sing? Did you participate in any school music organizations? Do you write or produce music (acoustically or electronically)? Did your parents' musical influences have a strong effect on your musical background? Do you have any involvement in music with a church or community organization?
2. Musical Interests – What are your favorite styles or genres of music? What are some of your favorite bands, artists or composers? What styles of music have you not yet discovered the value of?
3. Hopes for this course – What do you hope to gain from this course? What are you excited to learn more about?

Optional Assignments – 0% of final grade

These are to be read, listened to, and studied. These assignments are not part of your grade, but will be necessary for many, if not all, of the assessments, discussion assignments, and the midterm exam. Take notes to help you complete the assessments. All the Optional Assignments are located on the Connect 4 Education platform.

Assessments (Classes 1-20, 22-28) – 20% of final grade

All assessments are completed within the C4E website. You have one attempt at each quiz. Use the notes you took when reading through the Class Assignments within each section. Assessments must be submitted by 11:59 pm on the Sunday of the week; they are listed on the schedule in the syllabus. Most assessments have 10 questions (some have fewer) and a 20-minute time limit. Two attempts allowed. NO LATE WORK.

Discussion Assignments – 30% of final grade

As the largest portion of your grade in this course, time and care should be taken with each of the six Discussion Assignments. The specifics of each assignment are located on D2L. Click on the "Communication" tab at the top of the course page and select "Discussions." There you will find the "Discussion Assignments" forum with topics dedicated to each of the assignments. For Assignments 1-3 and 5, please submit your responses as new threads under the topic designated for each assignment. For Assignments 4 and 6, you will respond to your classmates' previously posted threads in the topics for Discussions 3 and 5.

Each response should be at least 300 words in length. This typically equals about 20 sentences or 3-4 paragraphs. Your responses will be graded using the rubric below.

Listening Assignments – 20% of final grade

Two listening assignments are to be completed toward the end of the course. For each of the assignments, you will choose a piece of music to study and write about. I am open to any genre or style of music that you can find from J. S. Bach, Charlie Parker, or Indonesian Gamelan music to Elvis Presley, The Rolling Stones, J Dilla, or Taylor Swift. The bulk of your writing will detail how the composers, performers, producers, lyricists and engineers use each of the seven organizing elements of music (rhythm, tempo, meter, melody, harmony, texture and form) outlined in Section 3 of the text.

Although the music you select is completely up to you, I would consider a few things before making your selections. First, does the piece you select utilize each of the seven elements with enough depth that will allow you to write meaningfully about them. Different pieces of music will emphasize different elements with different weights. Whether each element is used significantly in the piece you choose or not, think about what the composer is trying to convey. For example, a lack of harmony could purposefully help the composer evoke a certain feeling or emotion.

Second, I don't expect you to detail all the intricacies of each of your chosen pieces like a professional musicologist. That being said, I do expect you to use some of the vocabulary that you have encountered in the text throughout the duration of this course.

And third, choose two pieces of music that have significant differences. I do not want to see pieces by the same artist or even in the same genre. One thing you can get from this course (if you are open to it) is a broadening of your musical umbrella. Try to find music that you haven't discovered yet, and I bet you will find it is easier and more exciting to study and write about than a piece you have heard dozens of times.

Below are the elements to include in your writing:

- General Information (name of selected work, people who worked on the piece, year composed or recorded, link to a performance, background information)
- Details about the usage of the elements of music (rhythm, tempo, meter, melody, harmony, texture and form)
- Conclusion about how these musical elements combine to create a meaningful piece of music

Lastly, I understand that some of this information can be found with a quick Google search. That is fine for the general information section of the assignment. Once you begin discussing how the elements of music are used in the piece, your own thoughts should dominate your writing. Explicit plagiarism will be disciplined as stated in the MSU Texas Student Code of Conduct.

To get started with this assignment, log into D2L, click "Assessments," then "Assignments." Here you will find links for each of the two Listening Assignments. Within each assignment, I have attached a template in .pdf, .docx, and .pages file formats. Download the file type that works best for you and add your comments about the work you selected in the blank spaces of the template. Don't delete any of the prompts. They are there to guide you through the assignment. The entire submission should total about 3 pages (single-spaced) and will be graded using the rubric below.
