Methods of Instruction

This course will be presented in a manner that will allow you to learn independently, from each other, through the discussion board, recorded lecture, reading, and postings. While you may work somewhat at your own pace, I have found that most students appreciate the structure of due dates. Please adhere to the due dates and adjust your study schedule accordingly. Internet courses are a convenient and effective method of learning; however, they require as much work and attention as traditional instruction. The following will ensure success this semester:

1. Do not think you can do this course in your spare time. Plan, plan, and plan some more. Schedule at least 12-15 hours a week to dedicate to this course.
2. Please adhere to all deadlines and due dates-this will help you plan-you may complete assignments early but do not turn them in late.
3. Please read and re-read assignments. Get clarification as soon as you can (do not wait until the night before it's due).

See Appendix A for a complete list of standards/competencies (if applicable) and Appendix B for assignment/standards alignment matrix

AI / Chat GPT

Since writing, analytical, and critical thinking skills are part of the learning outcomes of this course, all writing assignments should be prepared by the student. Developing strong competencies in this area will prepare you for a competitive workplace. Therefore, AI-generated submissions are not permitted and will be treated as plagiarism.

Desire-to-Learn (D2L)

Extensive use of the MSU D2L program is a part of this course. Each student is expected to be familiar with this program as it provides a primary source of communication regarding assignments, examination materials, and general course information. You can log into D2L through the MSU Homepage. If you experience difficulties, please contact the technicians listed for the program or contact your instructor.

Attendance

Because this course does not include physical or in-person class meetings, regular attendance will be demonstrated through daily access to D2L, listening to recorded lectures, active participation in class discussions, and completion of assigned course activities.

Students are expected to log in to D2L every day to review course announcements, materials, recorded lectures, class discussions, assignments, and other course activities. Students are expected to listen to all assigned recorded lectures, participate meaningfully in class discussions, and complete assignments and other required activities by the designated deadlines.

Although students are generally evaluated based on their academic effort and performance rather than attendance alone, consistent participation and engagement are essential to successful completion of the course.

Students who fail to regularly log in to D2L, listen to assigned recorded lectures, participate in class discussions, or complete required course activities may be considered excessively absent or inactive. The instructor may contact students regarding lack of participation and provide a verbal or written warning before taking further action. Students who demonstrate excessive inactivity or fail to meet course participation requirements may be subject to being dropped from the course, consistent with university policies.

The instructor will maintain records of student participation and engagement in the course. These records will serve as documentation of students' participation in required class discussions and course activities.

Online Computer Requirements

Taking an online class requires you to have access to a computer (with Internet access) to complete and upload your assignments. It is your responsibility to have (or have access to) a working computer in this class. *Assignments and tests are due by the due date, and personal computer technical difficulties will not be considered reason for the instructor to allow students extra time to submit assignments, tests, or discussion postings. Computers are available on campus in various areas of the buildings as well as the Academic Success Center. *Your computer being down is not an excuse for missing a deadline!! There are many places to access your class! Our online classes can be accessed from any computer in the world which is connected to the internet. Contact your instructor immediately upon having computer trouble. If you have technical difficulties in the course, there is also a student helpdesk available to you. The college cannot work directly on student computers due to both liability and resource limitations however they are able to help you get connected to our online services. For help, log into D2L.

Recording Classes

*Recording classes is generally prohibited without the professor's explicit permission. Such recordings, when permitted, are for personal use only and may not be uploaded to the internet or otherwise shared, transmitted, or published without the professor's prior consent. Some faculty may not permit recordings of their classes. When it is feasible and appropriate, students may record classes to accommodate disabilities under the Americans With Disabilities Act, with prior approval of Disability Support Services. Such recordings may not be uploaded to the internet or otherwise shared, transmitted, or published.

Instructor Class Policies
