

ENGL 1143 Week #5: August 1-4, 2022

Study: Literacy Narrative Paper Instructions and Sample

Watch the hyperlinked lesson on the elements of a narrative paper. After reading all of the Literacy Narrative Paper Instructions and the Literacy Narrative Paper Sample, contact me if you have questions about “literacy.”

Review: One Peer Review for a posted infographic due Monday, August 1, by 11:00 PM

After posting your infographic (in the Week #4 content), you have access to your peers’. Open infographics by selecting other students’ names in blue. Use the comment space to answer and post responses to these 5 peer review questions for one of your peers:

- What argument does the title suggest?
- Who is the audience for this infographic?
- What is the purpose for the chosen images?
- How does the layout reinforce the message?
- Is the infographic made credible with source(s)?

Submit: Infographic final draft due in the drop box Tuesday, August 2, by 11:00 PM

After reading your peer’s review of your infographic, make improvements. Make certain to save your infographic as a PDF before submitting it to the Drop box for the Infographic Final Draft.

Submit: Literacy Narrative Paper due Wednesday, August 3, by 11:00 PM

The time to write this paper is limited so begin it early in the week.

Study: Previous Timed-Writing Essays

- Feedback: You can find the feedback for Timed-Writing Essays #1 and 2 in the toolbar under Assessments, Tests, and each essay.
- Review: Go to the Week #3 content to review timed-writing essay content.
- Reading Assignment: The reading assignment for the final exam is a “Salvation” by Langston Hughes. The essay is in the Week #5 content.

Read: “Salvation” by Langston Hughes

Hughes’s well-known essay is an excellent model of a literacy narrative. Note the choices the author made in language, characterization, and plot. Make notes in preparation for the final exam.

Write: Final Exam Timed-Writing Essay #3 on Thursday, August 4, 2022—2 hours between 6:00 AM and 11:00 PM.

Do not submit a pre-written paper. Write your four-paragraph essay in the written-response box in D2L.

I am praying for you as you complete your work. Being your teacher this semester has been my great privilege.

Blessings,
Ms. Green
