Academic Dishonesty

Plagiarism is (1) the use of source material of other persons (either published or unpublished, including the Internet) without following the accepted techniques of giving credit or (2) the submission for credit of work not the individual's to whom credit is given. If a student in the class appropriate disciplinary action will be taken. The Student Creed adopted by the MSU Student Government reinforces the discouragement of plagiarism and other unethical behaviors. The first statement of the creed reads, "As an MSU student, I pledge not to lie, cheat, steal, or help anyone else to do so." Plagiarism is lying, cheating, and stealing.

Disruption of Teaching

Disruption or obstruction of teaching, research, administration, disciplinary proceedings, or other university activities authorized to be held or conducted on the premises of Midwestern State University. Such activity includes classroom behavior that interferes with either the instructor's ability to conduct the class or the ability of other students to profit from the instructional program.

Instructor Drop

An instructor may drop a student any time during the semester for excessive absences, for consistently failing to meet class assignments, for an indifference attitude, or for disruptive conduct.

Standards of Conduct

Federal privacy law prohibits me from releasing information about students to certain parties outside the university without the signed consent of the student. Thus, in almost all cases I will not discuss your academic progress or other matters with your parents. Please do not have them call me. Regardless of these important legal considerations, it is my general policy to communicate with the students, not the parents, even when a student has signed a consent form. College students are adults and are expected to behave accordingly.

If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, if you have emergency medical information that needs sharing, or if you need special accommodations in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with the professor as soon as possible.

Social Justice:

Social justice is one of Midwestern State University's stated core values, and the professor considers the classroom a place where students are treated with respect as human beings, regardless of gender, race, ethnicity, national origin, religious affiliation, sexual orientation, political beliefs, age, or ability. Moreover, diversity of thought is appreciated and encouraged, provided the students can agree to disagree. The professor's expectation is that all students consider the classroom a safe environment.

Singer's Health:

Please take care of yourself. Each singer in Midwestern Singers is an important contributor to our Choir! Being a member of this ensemble is a responsibility that you have accepted, which means you must take care of yourself by drinking plenty of water, getting enough sleep (and rest), brushing your teeth, doing your homework early (for all of your classes) so you don't have to cram it in at the last moment! If you are slightly under the weather, come to rehearsal to participate as much as you are able; this may mean sitting and listening while marking your music, possibly sitting apart from the other singers as to not pass on your illness. If you are extremely ill, please stay home and get better, you are too important to this ensemble to be ill; particularly if you are running a fever, stay away, do not infect other singers in the ensemble.

A Note on Covid-19

This course will follow all Midwestern State University protocol on Covid-19. If you exhibit any symptoms of Covid-19 — and I mean any — please stay home and join the class virtually. Due to the synchronous nature of this course you will not fall behind and, more importantly, you will not expose your colleagues to a potentially dangerous situation. This will be a strange semester, so please do your part in making sure that this classroom is safe for all involved.
