

History 1133.MX1 – Online Survey of American History to 1865 (May 15 – June 2, 2023)

Dr. P. Michael Rattanasengchanh

Midwestern State University

 If you think history class is all about memorizing dates or you want a high school history class taught by a sports coach, THIS course is not for you. Here you will learn how and why events and issues happened and why someone did what they did; you must learn to explain, describe, and give details. Telling “what” happened will not be enough. *****

Course Description

Welcome to U.S. History to 1865 online. This survey course provides an introduction to the political, economic, ideological, and social developments in the United States from contact to 1865. The first half of the course looks at the early settlers of North America, the Native Americans, traces the developments that allowed colonists from thirteen disparate colonies to see themselves as one people who should constitute an independent nation. The second half explores how Americans struggled with the meaning and consequences of their Revolution. They debated the contradiction between the ideals of liberty and the existence of slavery and other forms of dependence. Within a hundred years of the Revolution, these issues had so polarized the North and South that the election of a Republican president, Abraham Lincoln, in 1860 prompted the secession of eleven slaveholding states. Only four years of bloody civil war restored the Union and destroyed slavery. You will also learn how historians assess, use, and interpret primary sources (the documents, images, artifacts, and architecture that historians use to know about and interpret the past).

Themes

- Early Americans
- Colonialization
- Revolutionary Era
- Constitution
- Manifest Destiny

- Sectionalism/Slavery
- Indian Removal
- Civil War

Course Objectives

- Identify and discuss major themes and issues in American history from contact to 1877.
- Understand the chronology of American history. You need not memorize dates but in order to understand certain developments, the establishment and destruction of slavery for example, you will need to know the chronological sequence of events.
- Critically evaluate and interpret a variety of primary sources, including documents, archeological data, pictures, folk stories/music, and oral tradition. You should be aware of the issues involved in interpreting primary sources.
- Think historically and make arguments about the causes of change in history. You should be able to formulate arguments about how and why things have changed in the past.
- Use writing conventions appropriate to the discipline of history.
- Speak and write clearly.
