Course Description

This course seeks to analyze contemporary French culture and society through its representation in films and the media. Over the course of the semester, we will examine several trends pertaining to contemporary France, including education, immigration, labor, and the political system. The course will be conducted entirely in French and all assignments will be completed in the target language. Students will improve their language skills through class discussions, oral presentations, film viewings, readings, written film reviews, and reaction papers.

Skills and Outcomes

In this course, students will (1) become conversant with issues of contemporary French society, (2) be able to describe the salient aspects of French society, and (3) develop the ability to articulate their point of view, or own “prise de vue,” on contemporary France, through readings, viewings, guided class discussions, presentations, and analytical written assignments.

In order to help students keep track of their progress toward course objectives, the instructor for this class will provide a Midterm Progress Report through each student's WebWorld account. They simply give students an idea of where they stand at the midpoint of the semester. Students earning below a C at the midway point should meet with the instructor and/or take advantage of tutoring options.

Homework Assignments

Online homework assignments will be given on d2L after each class. Each assignment is to be completed before class begins on the due date. Failure to turn in the homework on time will result in a penalty on your homework grade for the given assignment.

Participation

Participation is based upon your use of French in the face-to-face classroom and/or via recorded chats with classmates and/or with an online avatar. Don't worry about speaking perfect French. Accuracy will come with practice and repetition. I will record points for participation in the face-to-face classroom when you volunteer to answer questions or you participate in conversations in French with a classmate.
